Vieni a godere dei tesori terrestri che punteggiano le coste del Pacifico nord-occidentale. Potrai fare shopping a oltranza a Beverly Hills, andare a caccia di conchiglie e celebrità sulla spiaggia di Malibu e partecipare a un'escursione alla volta della celebre insegna di Hollywood. Pernoteremo quindi nella Città della Baia, San Francisco. Avrai così l'occasione di passeggiare nel quartiere di Haight-Ashbury, assaporare i vini della Sonoma Valley e cercare rifugio nella foresta di Muir Woods. La serenità ci accompagna fino alla Colombia britannica, dove treni di lusso si avventurano nelle profondità delle Montagne Rocciose canadesi.

Beautiful Napa by Hot Air Balloon

Leaving San Francisco before dawn, head north to Napa and our launch site, where you will witness the balloons being prepped for flight. Rising into the air, the immaculate vineyards of Napa's narrow valley—just 20 miles long and two miles wide—come into view below, running north to Bothe-Napa Valley State Park, dotted with creeks, Douglas firs, and the hot springs of Calistoga. The landscape is still scorched in places, by 2020's wildfires. Looking eastwards, the spine of the stunning Mayacamas Mountains separates Napa from its wine country neighbour Sonoma—whilst to the south, with favourable winds and clear weather—we might glimpse the rust-red of the Golden Gate Bridge and San Francisco skyline. Back on terra firma, enjoy brunch in Yountville, where vintner Robert Mondavi first put Napa Valley on the global wine map. Savour Yountville's small-town charm commingled with exceptional food and wine, before heading back towards the city.

Hollywood Hills Hike

The city of Los Angeles has LA Times newspaper publisher Harry Chandler to thank for the Hollywood Sign, built in 1923 to promote his new real estate project, 'Hollywoodland'. One hundred years later, nine of the 50-foot-high letters are still standing, a lasting tribute to the city's world-dominating movie industry. Lace up your hiking books and join us on a three-hour round-trip into the Hollywood Hills to see the larger-than-life letters up close, stopping along the way for photo opportunities and snippets of Hollywood history. Keen eyes will spot the rooftops of Disney, Warner Brothers and Universal Studios, and glimpse a peek at the Forest Lawn Mausoleum, where Hollywood royalty including Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall are laid to rest. Stop for an unforgettable open-air picnic on the grassy slopes of Griffith Park and soak in the sweeping views of Sin City and the LA skyline, the star of many a Hollywood blockbuster.

Private Winery Tour in Captivating Sonoma County

Sonoma County, Napa's more bucolic and laid-back neighbour, boasts both world-class wines and extraordinary natural beauty. Flanked by the Pacific on one side—source of the cooling coastal fogs so beloved by Sonoma's grapes—and the magnificent Mayacamas Mountains on the other, this pocket of northern California is papered with rolling acres of immaculately planted vines, farmland, rustic barns and charming small towns. Your destination is Roche Winery, a family-run estate just south of Sonoma. Here we tour the 20-acre vineyard with its dark, clay soil and the 50,000-case production facility, sampling the latest vintage straight from the barrels. Afterwards, seated on the shaded tasting terrace, outdoor fires lit in cooler days, try five limited-production wines paired with charcuterie and cheese. Your hosts—known for their down-to-earth, convivial Irish hospitality—bring the experience to life as views of the Sonoma valley unfold around you.

Marvel at Redwood Majesty in Muir Woods

Stand amongst giants, the quiet of the primeval forest a tonic to today's cacophony. Muir Woods is one of the world's last remaining old-growth coastal redwood forests; to stand amidst its sublime beauty feels like a privilege. Depending on the day, marine fog floating off the Pacific may whisper through the 800-year-old trees, or bright sunshine may peek through the emerald canopy high, high above, filtering down the slim, elegant trunks to dapple the forest floor. Your experience begins with a drive through San Francisco to cross the glorious Golden Gate Bridge—the Pacific to one side, Alcatraz to the other. Once within Muir Woods, you have over an hour to meander trails snaking along the creek and into the cathedral-like heart of the trees; or simply to be still, immersed in the magic of the redwoods. Returning to port, pause in Marin for the view from the headlands, the Golden Gate Bridge soaring high above the water, the city beckoning beyond.
