

THE SOUL
OF INDIA

Dear Traveller,

My parents, Felix and Jane Pinto, founded Micato Safaris 60 years ago in Africa, and 30 years ago my dear friend Cecil Haidar Ali and I started Micato India. But India has been an integral part of my family for centuries (my grandparents immigrated to Kenya from Goa during the British Raj). Our roots in India are deep, our love for it is great.

I hope this brochure conveys that love and firm connection. But before you size it up, I'd like to highlight a few key reasons we think Micato can't be surpassed in offering a deep and delightful Indian experience.

Luxury with a purpose: You'll immediately see that Micato India doesn't stint on creature comforts. Yet we know that the sweetest and most sumptuous luxury always has a rationale. India is a lively place—to put it mildly. And so the Indians have devoted deep thought and talent to creating a science of serenity, and they've put that science to work in creating our favoured hotels, some of the most luxuriously serene hotels on earth.

Exclusive inclusions: Throughout this brochure we zero in on our unique approach to Indian travel: Our no-tipping policy. The top-flight Travel Director who accompanies each trip—private Custom, small-group Classic, or Private Classic—from beginning to end. Our all-meals-included policy (which isn't confined to hotel restaurants), all local wine and beer at mealtime, complimentary laundry service, and much more.

Family: is a bedrock Micato principle, in Africa (Travel+Leisure has named us World's Best Family Safari Outfitter) and in India (whose on-the-ground staff is led by Cecil's children, Lisa and Michael, members of the extended Pinto family). And the family principle has always included our guests as a matter of course...which is why journalist Becca Hensley recently wrote in a prominent travel magazine that:

“Traveling with Micato feels much like being escorted through India by old family friends.”

And which is why I invite you to join us in India, our ancestral home.

Sincerely,

Dennis Pinto
Managing Director

The Micato Difference in INDIA

Micato's trips are inspired by our Indian heritage, by decades of experience, and by an enduring fascination with this endlessly engaging country. We're intent upon presenting India in its most sparkling and enchanting light, and so:

Toppest-Notch Travel Directors

All our trips are accompanied every step of the way by a highly trained Indian Travel Director. We stress Indian, because of the advantages of being escorted by someone deeply knowledgeable about the land and its customs and dialects, not to mention its lesser-visited wonders, including unique encounters with local people our guides have known for years, marvelous people in all walks of life, engaged in all kinds of fascinating endeavours, from India's skyrocketing movers and shakers, to traditional artists, cosmic thinkers, and tea shop proprietors with a love for Hitchcock movies.

As journalist Becca Hensley writes, "Our Micato Travel Director was a miracle worker, following one magic trick with the next."

All Gratuities Always Included

No tipping is necessary or expected in Micato's India, ever, from the beginning of your trip to its end (this includes tips to your Travel Director and drivers). We are happy to take care of this often nagging detail for you.

An Indian Company

Micato India's home base is in India, not in an office two oceans away. Upon arrival you are given key phone numbers, which you can call anytime, day or night. So, if your Travel Director isn't in attendance, and you need a prescription filled, a question answered, or a car at your hotel's front entrance, we're on-the-24-hour-ball. Plus, Micato is a well-known and respected partner of India's champion hotels, making life all the sweeter for our guests.

Upgrades

We fly business class in India whenever possible. If—as sometimes is the case—there is no business class, we purchase an extra 12 pounds of baggage allowance per sector, per guest.

We Pick Up the Check, Always

All meals are included everywhere, every day. If you choose to dine at one of your hotel's restaurants, you're not—this is very often the case—limited to a buffet or minimal menu. And if you want to sample one of Jaipur's famous eateries, or follow your Travel Director's tip on a hip new Delhi café, Micato takes care of the check.

Refreshing Travel

We only use the most up-to-date, air-conditioned vehicles (and our cars and vans are carefully supplied with iced water, hand purifiers, snacks, and whatever you need).

We Pick Up the Tab

Local wine and beer are included with all meals.

Laundry Happily Included

Complimentary laundry service is on us.

Udaipur's Lake Pichola and its grand City Palace (also seen on this brochure's final spread), built over the course of 400 years by the Maharanas of the Mewar dynasty. Micato's Hem Singh (see page 17) says that "My favourite city, outside of Jaipur, of course, is Udaipur: coffee on a private terrace overlooking the lake, a little city exploring—especially the rural areas—and a sunset boat ride followed by dinner on the edge of the lake."

THE SOUL OF INDIA

16 days | Departs Thursday, returns Friday

Months, years, decades could profitably be spent exploring India's 812 million richly varietal acres. But few of us have time to follow our bliss indefinitely, so we created The Soul of India to provide a thoughtful, succinctly paced, and delightful look at some of the continent's most eye-brightening sights.

We begin in Delhi, "always interesting to all mankind" as Ved Mehta quoted a taxi wallah as saying. Then we pay homage to the Taj, whose praises we sing throughout this brochure. We peacefully search for what is perhaps the most splendid animal on earth in Ranthambore National Park, wander the glamorous Pink City of Jaipur, and witness intense spiritual devotion at Varanasi, "the most supremely potent pilgrimage site on earth." We end in the supercity of Mumbai, a distillation of India's incredible energy and ambition, its daily familiarity with and deep attachment to its many thousands of years of history.

The Indian way of life provides the vision of the natural, real way of life. We veil ourselves with unnatural masks. On the face of India are the tender expressions which carry the mark of the Creator's hand.

India Through the Ages*

DAY 1 En route

DAYS 2–4 Delhi

“Charming, capricious, imperial” (as John Foster Fraser wrote), Delhi is one of the world’s most intriguing mega-cities. Based from the modern, centrally located Taj Mahal Hotel, we’ll visit the imposing war memorial India Gate as well as Humayun’s Tomb (an inspiration for the Taj Mahal of 73 years later). With our Travel Director at helpful hand, we’ll wend Old Delhi’s twisting maze of streets and narrow, bustling, breathtakingly colourful byways, and visit India’s largest mosque, the imposing Jama Masjid and the nobly friendly Gurudwara Bangla Sahib, second-most important shrine (after Amritsar’s Golden Temple) for India’s large and influential Sikh community.

DAYS 5 & 6 Agra

There’s much more to Agra than the Taj Mahal.* The Agra Fort is a masterpiece of Mughal architecture in its own right and the city itself is vivacious and engaging (which in India means extremely vivacious, exceptionally engaging). But “emeralds, rubies, and pearls...must pass away, yet still one solitary tear would hang on the cheek of time in the form of this white and gleaming Taj Mahal,” as India’s great laureate Rabindranath Tagore wrote.

Heartliftingly, almost hallucinatorily beautiful, the Taj Mahal is one of the first artifacts we would present to aliens as proof of humanity’s worth.

Our hotel, the universally admired Amarvilas, is a delight for those of us bewitched by the Taj: every window in the hotel looks out at the very nearby monument.

* Pronounced Taj Meh-hel, by the way. Mahal is a palace, taj is a crown: hence the Taj is the crown of palaces.

DAYS 7 & 8 Ranthambore National Park

We drive in the morning to Ranthambore and the exquisite and intimate Oberoi Vanyavilas, named India's #1 resort hotel on Travel+Leisure's 2017 World's Best Hotels list. We come to subtly beautiful Ranthambore (thought by many to be the inspiration for Kipling's unforgettable The Jungle Book, of Mowgli and Bagheera fame) to see Panthera tigris tigris, an incandescent beast many consider the most impressive of Earth's many trillions of sentient beings. Our chances of life-sparking sightings are very good. We cruise the park under the guidance of our Travel Director and astute local guides, who can identify the park's super feline denizens by name and number, and sense their presence by the jungly warning cries that everywhere accompany Shere Khan. Micato, ten-time winner of Travel+Leisure's Number One Best Safari Operator award, has a natural affection for Panthera leo, the African lion. But we must admit that seeing Leo's Indian cousin amble imperially in Ranthambore is an almost shockingly exciting experience.

DAYS 9–11 Jaipur

Residents of the entrancing Pink City are Parisian in their pride of place, and the city is the historic home of what is probably India's most famous and flamboyantly rich ruling family. In fact, our three nights in Jaipur are spent in the Rambagh Palace, the fabulous former home of one of them, the great Maharajah Sawai Man Singh II.

Monuments to the wealth and monumental ambition of Jaipur's maharajahs abound: grand City Palace, where members of the family still live; the Star Warsy observatory of Jantar Mantar, and huge yet lyrical Amber Fort, designed for protection in case of war (which never came) and for royalty's never-ending quest for luxury. One morning we'll lift off on a heart-stirring hot air balloon ride, flying high, then low over Jaipur's awakening suburbs, waving to kids on the way to school, housewives putting up laundry, solemn old men on bicycles who break into big smiles as we waft overhead. We'll explore Jaipur's famous shopping bonanzas, and one evening we'll get up close and personal with a winsome Elephas maximus at a private estate, taking a short walk alongside the beautiful beast, ending with a festive open-air dinner.

PREVIOUS PAGE Indian ladies in front of the Palace of the Winds, or Hawa Mahal, one of Jaipur's many architectural masterworks. The Palace allowed sequestered women to look out at the—then as now—rambunctiously vibrant streets of the city.

BELOW The extremely royal Bengal tiger, Ranthambore National Park. No one ever said it better than Blake: “Tiger tiger, burning bright / In the forests of the night / What immortal hand or eye / Could frame thy fearful symmetry?”

DAYS 12 & 13 Varanasi

We fly to Varanasi in the morning, via Delhi. From our base at the Taj Ganges we'll venture out to the much-pilgrimage site at Sarnath, where the Buddha went public for the first time after his enlightenment at nearby Bodh Gaya.

But our focal point is Varanasi, in many ways the beating heart of the Hindu universe, perhaps the earth's most supremely potent pilgrimage site. We'll observe ancient rites at sunset, when tiny oil lamps are ceremoniously lit on the sacred river Ganges during the timeless—and in the Indian way, very contemporary—aarti ceremony. And we'll return for a quiet early morning boat ride, watching in the pink and gold light as devotees perform ritual sunrise baths and religious ceremonies, chant mantras, sing hymns, and go about the business of enlightenment. Perhaps nowhere in India, or the world, is it possible to witness so clearly, colourfully, and intensely many thousands of years of unbroken dedication to spiritual exploration.

DAYS 14 & 15 Mumbai

A world vanguard city, Mumbai is India's unquestioned financial and commercial hub, a gleaming magnet for India's millions of go-getting entrepreneurs: We'll encounter the famous dabbawallahs of Churchgate Station, who prepare and deliver upwards of 175,000 lunches a day. We may do some spirited bargaining at Chor Bazaar, or the Thieves Market, where everything and anything is available. We'll roam the former Prince of Wales Museum, one of India's premier art and history museums, and enjoy a leisurely walk through Colaba market near our lodgings, the exquisite Oberoi, Mumbai, before dinner and our flights homeward.

DAY 16 Arrive home

ABOVE The Oberoi Amarvilas, Agra. Every one of its windows looks out at the Taj, which blurs the line between nature and art, stone and spirit, wakefulness and a wondrous dreamworld.

BELOW A beautifully designed stepwell, or reservoir, in Jaipur.
